Middlesex Vicinage Minority Concerns Committee Holds Open Meeting at Puerto Rican Action Board

As a part of its community outreach initiative, the Middlesex Vicinage Minority Concerns Committee will hold a meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 15 at 5 p.m. at the Puerto Rican Action Board, 90 Jersey Ave., New Brunswick.

Wilda Irizarry, team leader for the Family Court Intake Unit, will give a presentation on how to establish a legal custody order for a minor child in a non-dissolution case.

Vicinages across the state have brought diverse groups of volunteers together with judges, court staff, and the public to form Vicinage Advisory Committees on Minority Concerns. These advisory committees examine issues of importance to racial/ethnic minorities and the community to achieve fair and equitable access to court services and programs.

In addition to gathering information related to court operations, policies, and programs and advising the local courts on related issues, the committees assist with implementing the recommendations of the Supreme Court Committee on Minority Concerns, monitoring the progress, and making recommendations to the local assignment judge for improvements.

The meeting is open to all Middlesex County residents. Participants are asked to call Luis M. Hernandez at 732-519-3344 for more information.
