Middlesex Vicinage Celebrates Black History Month

Middlesex Vicinage will hold a free Black History Month celebration on Friday, Feb. 27 from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in the Jury Assembly Room on the first floor of the Middlesex County Courthouse, 56 Paterson St., New Brunswick.

The theme for the event is “America: Then and Now (1965-2015),” which celebrates the anniversary of the Voting Rights Act.

Assignment Judge Travis L. Francis and Trial Court Administrator Gregory Edwards will give opening remarks. The program will feature Tomas Lopez of the Brennan Center for Justice at NYU Law. Lopez is counsel for the Democracy Program, where his work focuses on voting rights and elections. He will discuss the past 50 years of the Voting Rights Act and current challenges.

The program is sponsored by the Middlesex Vicinage EEO/AA Advisory Committee.
