Five from Middlesex Vicinage Probation Division Honored with CPONJ Awards

Five Middlesex Vicinage probation officers received service awards from the Chief Probation Officers Association of New Jersey (CPONJ) on Aug. 4 at the Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex in Trenton.

Tara Jones, supervisor of the drug court unit, received a Certificate of Meritorious Service for her contributions to the drug court program. Jones, the only remaining member of the vicinage's original probation drug court team, was one of the first officers hired when the program began in 2004.

Tracy Adamkiewicz received a Certificate of Outstanding Achievement. As a supervisor in the adult supervision unit, she uses her experience overseeing a high-risk caseload and as a court liaison to train and mentor staff.

Joi Murray, Diane Andersen and Jennifer Green received Career Achievement Awards for their ongoing commitment to probation service. Murray has worked for the division for 30 years and supervises a clerical team in adult supervision. Andersen has been employed as an investigator in the child support enforcement unit for 29 years. Greene joined the Judiciary 15 years ago and has worked in the probation division since 2003. They are each known for their strong work ethic and commitment to providing quality customer service.
